

Privacy Policy

This privacy policy outlines the processing of your personal data by Dino Habit Tracker. Here, you will learn about the data we collect, its usage, your rights, and the security measures we implement. We ensure that your data is safeguarded in accordance with relevant legislation. This policy was last updated on 02/07/2024.

Data Collection and Purpose: When registering the app, you input personal data, like name and email, used to custom experience and recover your account. Also inputs your daily habits, used for service purpose.

Data Processing: To provide services and ensure a better experience, we process your personal data based on your consent and applicable legislation.

Why we process data:

Create and manage account: to create, maintain, and manage your account.

Manage payments and returns: Payments and returns are handled by iTunes and Google Play. Data is processed to manage your subscription.

Marketing and communication: To send notifications and respond to queries for better experience.

Improve and customize services: Troubleshoot errors, conduct research, and develop features based on technical data.

Respond to legal requests/requirements: Comply with legal obligations, assert rights, and prevent illegal activities.

Rights and Control: Exercise your rights within the app or device. This includes information access, correction, deletion, objection, consent withdrawal, and notification settings.

Changes to Privacy Policy: We may update this Privacy Policy, and any changes will be communicated. Stay informed about our practices and choices available to you.

Contact Information: For inquiries or assistance, contact us at dinostudiosdev@gmail.com.

Versions in Other Languages: The English version prevails if translations conflict.

Thank you for entrusting us with your information. We are committed to respecting your privacy and providing you with a valuable experience.

From 02/07/2024